This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. "Ericus Dei gratia rex Norwegiæ universis præsentes litteras visuris vel audituris, salutem in Domino.

Noverit universitas vestra quod nos Audoenum Huglaci, dominum de Hegranes, carum consanguineum et secretarium nostrum, exhibitorem præsentium, nostrum facimus, constituimus, et ordinamus verum et legittimum procuratorem et nuncium specialem ad tractandum et conveniendum pro nobis et nostro nomine cum serenissimo principe domino Philippo rege Francorum illustri, ad cujus præsentiam ipsum super hoc specialiter destinamus, de confœderationibus mutuis et amicitiæ fœderibus inter eundem regem et nos, ac nostros et ejus heredes sibi et nobis in regnis nostris successuros, ac eadem regna, contrahendis et perpetuis temporibus duraturis, concordandis, firmandis, et quavis firmitate vallandis tractatus et conventiones hujusmodi; ac promittendis pro nobis et successoribus nostris Norwegiæ regibus eidem regi pro se et successoribus suis Franciæ regibus subventiones et subsidia quæcumque, tam generalia quam specialia perpetua, et ad tempus, contra quascumque personas cujuscunque conditionis existant, etiamsi imperiali vel regali fulgeant dignitate, et specialiter contra regem Angliæ et valitores ejus, tam regem Alemaniæ quam alios quoscumque, transigendum nomine nostro, paciscendum, componendum, compromittendum compromissum quacumque firmitate vallandum, et submittendum nos judicio vel arbitrio cujuscumque principis vel potentis; mutuum semel vel pluries, quotiescumque et quandocunque

A.D. 1295. Oct. 22.

Actum in primis, conventum et concordatum extitit inter eundem dominum regem Franciæ et nos, procuratorio nomine dicti domini regis, quod iidem domini Franciæ et Norwegiæ reges, ac heredes eorum sibi in regnis suis successuri, extunc ad invicem perpetuis temporibus veri et fideles amici, et inter regna prædicta unitatis, concordiæ et amicitiæ perpetuæ fœdera servabuntur. . . .

Porro de magnifico principe . . . Scotiæ rege illustri (qui pro hiis quæ tenet a dicto rege Franciæ in regno suo fidelitatis debito sibi hodie est astrictus), inter ipsum dominum regem et nos procuratorem prædictum, nomine quo supra, specialiter est conventum, quod dicto domino nostro regi Norwagiæ, vel successoribus suis, in guerris quas facerent contra ipsum regem Scotiæ, vel successores suos, nullum ipse rex Franciæ vel successores sui præstare tenebuntur auxilium vel juvamen. Et si rex ipse Scotiæ, vel successores sui, ipsi Franciæ regi aut successoribus suis in posterum guerram facerent, dictus dominus noster Norwegiæ rex, vel successores sui, auxilium vel favorem ipsi regi Franciæ præstare pari modo nullatenus tene-

A.D. 1295. Oct. 22.

Si vero idem rex Scotiæ de omnibus quæstionibus et querelis quas Norwegiæ rex prædictus dominus noster usque in diem præsentem habet, vel habere potest, contra ipsum, dicti regis Franciæ se vellet arbitrio vel judicio submittere, hinc ad animum actum est inter eundem dominum regem Franciæ et nos, procuratorem prædictum, nomine quo supra, quod dictus dominus noster rex Norwegiæ et successores sui in casu hujusmodi generalem confœderationem inter ipsum dominum regem Franciæ et nos, procuratorio nomine quo supra initam, etiam quantum ad ipsum regem Scotiæ et successores suos, tenebuntur dicto regi Franciæ et successoribus suis in omnibus observare. Et ipse similiter Franciæ rex eidem regi Norwagiæ et suis, servata tamen forma confœderationis ejusdem.

Actum est etiam et expresse conventum inter sæpedictum dominum regem Franciæ et nos, procuratorem prædictum, nomine quo supra, quod quia sæpefatus Scotiæ rex in guerra prædicta, quam contra præfatum Angliæ regem habet dictus rex Franciæ, sibi debet assistere ope consilii et auxilii efficacis, et guerram facere contra eum, ne ab hiis distrahi valeat vel etiam impediri, sæpedictus dominus noster Norwagiæ rex, vel successores sui, prælibato Scotiæ regi vel suis, occasione aliquarum quæstionum vel dissentionum ortarum præteritis temporibus inter eos, prædicta guerra dicti domini regis Franciæ durante, guerram facere non poterunt, aut aliter eis molestationes inferre, nec novas causas fingere, vel occasionem præstare, fraudem, dolum aut machinationem aliquam adhibere, propter quos guerram aliquam, guerra dicti domini regis Franciæ prædicta durante, fieri oporteat inter ipsos, immo bona fide id vitabunt. . . . .

franville milites, nuncii et procuratores serenissimi principis domini Johannis regis Scotorum illustris, salutem in Domino. A.D. 1295. Oct. 22.

habuisse et recepisse a serenissimo principe domino Philippo rege Franciæ illustri, sex milia marcharum bonorum et legalium sterlingorum monetæ legalis Angliæ et Scotiæ, de pondere et compoto tresdecim solidorum et quatuor denariorum sterlingorum pro qualibet marcha, in pecunia numerata, pro præparacione et municione navigii domini nostri regis in subsidium ipsius regis Franciæ vernali tempore proximo transmittendi. Quæ siquidem sex milia marcharum nos, procurator prædictus procuratorio nomine supradicto, deduci concessimus de summa pecuniæ quam dominus rex Franciæ ipsi domino nostro regi Norwegiæ dare et ministrare tenetur pro dicto subsidio in primo solucionis termino pecuniæ supradictæ, si eum habere contigerit subsidium supradictum; alioquin eadem sex milia marcharum in valore, legalitate, bonitate ac pondere supradictis reddere et restituere Parisiis[1] dicto regi Franciæ, vel alii seu aliis de mandato suo, infra festum Resurrectionis Dominicæ[2] quod erit anno Domini millesimo ducentesimo nonagesimo septimo, ac refundere et restituere sibi omnia dampna, expensas, misias et interesse quæ ipsum dominum regem, ob defectum solucionis hujusmodi in termino supradicto non factæ, incurreret, aut sustinere contingeret, aut etiam sustineret. Credendo super hæc simplici verbo domini Franciæ regis prædicti, absque probacionis alterius onere requirendo.

Pro quibus omnibus et singulis tenendis, inviolabiliter observandis et firmiter adimplendis, nos Audoenus prædictus specialiter obligamus nos et heredes nostros, terram nostram, necnon procuratorio nomine domini nostri Norwegiæ regis ipsum dominum regem, heredes ac successores suos, et incolas regni sui, ut iidem incolæ et eorum bona propter hoc in regno Franciæ capi, arrestari, et detineri valeant; necnon tam præfati domini nostri regis quam heredum, successorum, et incolarum prædictorum, et nostra bona omnia mobilia et immobilia, ubicunque et in quibuscumque consistencia, præsentia et futura, expresse et specialiter obligamus. Renunciantes nomine quo supra in hac parte exceptioni non numeratæ pecuniæ, non habitæ non receptæ aut spei [sic] etiam numerandæ, ac omnibus aliis exceptionibus doli et actioni in factum, rationibus et deffensionibus juris et facti, quæ contra præsentes litteras possent objici vel opponi.

Actum est siquidem et expresse conventum inter nos procuratorem, nomine domini nostri regis et pro ipso, ac dominum regem Franciæ prædictum, quod si dominus noster rex in solutione prætaxatæ pecuniæ quantitatis termino prænotato, (quod absit), defecerit, generales confœderaciones et fœdera inter ipsum dominum Franciæ regem et nos, procuratorio nomine dicti domini nostri regis Norwegiæ, inita et firmata, quantum ipsius domini nostri regis Norwegiæ utilitatem respiciunt, irrita et juribus vacua, et nullius prorsus momenti existent; dic-

[2] On the 3d January a commission had been granted by the king to Spaldington, but with powers less extensive than those with which he was now invested. It did not authorize him, for instance, to impress men for the vessels. It is entered on the Patent Roll.

Among the miscellaneous Rolls in the Public Record Office is one which relates to this fleet, from which the following extract is given. From the previous portions of the account, it appears that about eight vessels were at this time employed in the service. Of these, the barge of Newcastle carried 120 men, that of Grimsby, 80, and that of Wintringham, 52. The rest averaged about 25 men :—

In the twenty-fourth year of the reign of king Edward of England, Easter day fell on the day of the Annunciation of our Lady.[2] On the Wednesday in Easter week, being the twenty-eighth day of March, the before-named king Edward passed the river Tweed with 5000 armed horse, and 30,000 footmen, and lay that night in Scotland at the priory of Coldstream, and the Thursday at Hutton,[3] and on the Friday[4] he took the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed by force of arms without tarrying. On the same day, sir William Douglas, who was within the castle, surrendered it, and the king lay that night in the castle, and his people in the town, each person in his house which he had taken; and the king remained there nearly a month.

On the day of St. George, 24th April,[5] news came to the king that they of Scotland had besieged the castle of Dunbar, which belonged to the earl Patrick, who held strongly with the king of England. It was upon a Monday[1] that the king sent his troops to raise the siege. Before they came there the castle had surrendered, and they of Scotland were within. When the troops of the king of England came there, they besieged the castle with three hosts on the Tuesday[2] that they arrived before it. On the Wednesday,[3] they who were within sent out privately, and on Thursday and Friday[4] came the host of Scotland all the afternoon to have raised the siege of the Englishmen. And when the Englishmen saw the Scotchmen, they fell upon them and discomfited the Scotchmen, and the chase continued more than five leagues of way, and until the hour of vespers. And there died sir Patrick de Graham, a great lord, and 10,055 by right reckoning.

On that same Friday,[5] by night, the king came from Berwick to go to Dunbar, and lay that night at Coldingham, and on the Saturday[6] at Dunbar, and on the same day they of the castle

[1] From the Original Roll, in the Imperial Archives at Paris, sect. J. carton 631, No. 6, marked "Angl. iiij.," according to an earlier numeration. It consists of seven membranes. It begins with the title, "Super homagio regis Scotiæ facto regi Angliæ. In Dei nomine, amen. Anno a nativitate ejusdem 1292, secundum quod observat ecclesia Anglicana, indictione vj, anno 21 Edw. i. sexta die exeunte mense Decembri, apud Novum Castellum super Tynam, in aula palatii dicti domini regis Angliæ infra castrum, —egregius princeps dominus J. de Balliolo, rex Scotiæ, fecit homagium." This is attested by J. de Cadamo. Then follows the entry "Super fidelitate regis Scotiæ," 1292, Nov. 20, at Norham. This also is witnessed by Jo. Erturi de Cadomo. The present instrument is then introduced, as in the text. It is indorsed, "Super homagio regis Scotiæ facta regi Angliæ. In B. xxxiij."

Whereas . . . we have sworn upon the holy Gospels.

And for ourselves, and for each of us severally, we have done homage to our lord the king aforesaid in these words: 'I become your liege man of life and of members and of earthly honour against all persons who can live and die.' And the same king, our lord, received them in this form: 'We receive this for the lands whereof you are at present seised, saving our right and the right of others, and excepting the lands which John Balliol, formerly king of Scotland, gave you since we surrendered to him the realm of Scotland, and also excepting those lands which we have seised before you have come to our peace.'

Moreover, we all, and each of us severally, have done fealty to our lord the king of England aforesaid in these words. 'I shall be true and loyal, and I will keep faith and loyalty to the king of England and to his heirs of life and of members and of earthly honour, against all persons who can live or die, and never will I bear arms for any one, nor will I give advice or aid against him nor against his heirs in any case which can happen, and I will

[1] From the Original, in the Royal Archives at Ghent, No. 834, formerly 715. Appended is a fragment of the seal, in white wax. In the Archives de la Chambre des Comptes at Lille formerly existed another original letter of King Philip upon the same subject, of which only a transcript is now extant. It recites the import of the mandate given above, adding that further aggression had been committed since the date of the last letter, the particulars of which are said to be contained in a schedule forwarded along with this document, but of which no copy remains. The goods so arrested are, by the king's orders, to be delivered up to the bearers, "Thomæ Ranulphi et Roberto Doukes (?) militibus, nunciis dilectissimi nostri, illustris regis Scotiæ." Omnibus has litteras visuris vel audituris, Robertus Hyron, rector ecclesiæ de Forde, custos novæ custumæ de Berwike super Twedam, salutem. Noveritis me recepisse securitatem de Edmundo Lethe, Thoma de Norwico, et Roberto Benedicite, de nova custuma triginta saccorum lanæ cariendæ[1] apud Jermemutham. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum meum huic litteræ patenti est appensum.

Vobis super hoc per præsentes litteras certificamus quod prædictas lanas apud Jernemutham adduxerunt et ibidem exoneraverunt, et inde custumam domini regis nobis bene et fideliter solverunt. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum coketti, quo utimur pro custuma lanarum, pellium et coriorum, præsentibus est appensum. Datæ apud Jernemutham, xj die Aprilis, anno regni regis E. vicesimo quinto.[3]

Et exposuit baronibus pro se et prædictis Edmundo et Thoma quod licet satisfecerint de custuma lanarum prædictarum apud Jernemutham, prout dicta littera plenius testatur, tamen Hugo de Cressingham, thesaurarius regis in Scotiæ apud Berewike, bona et catalla sua fecit arestari et arestata tenet, exigens ab eis eandem custumam, etc. Super quo petit pro se et sociis suis prædictis remedium eis fieri, ne bis una et eadem custuma ab eis levetur.

A.D. 1296. Oct. 10.

Marriage-settlement on Egidia of Ulster on her marriage with James, the steward of Scotland.

Pro Jacobo Senescallo Scotiæ et Egidia uxore ejus, de carta quam Ricardus de Burgo, comes Ultoniæ, fecit eisdem, de castro del Roo cum pertinentiis a rege confirmanda.

Rex omnibus ad quos, etc., salutem.

Inspeximus cartam quam dilectus et fidelis noster Ricardus de Burgo, comes Ultoniæ et dominus Connactensis, fecit dilecto et fideli nostro Jacobo Senescallo Scotiæ, et Egidiæ sorori ipsius comitis, de castro de Roo, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, in liberum maritagium, in hæc verba.

Sciant præsentes et futuri quod ego Ricardus de Burgo, comes Ultoniæ et dominus Connactensis, dedi, concessi, et hac præsenti carta mea confirmavi, domino Jacobo Senescallo Scotiæ, et Egidiæ sorori meæ, in liberum maritagium, castrum meum del Roo, et burgum, et totum dominicum pertinens ad dictum castrum, et totum dominicum, servitium, et redditus terrarum Anglicorum feoffatorum per me in le Kenauth ad dictum castrum del Roo pertinens, ex parte orientali aquæ de Roo, cum insula ejusdem aquæ juxta castrum prædictum; et etiam totam terram meam de Rennard, cum omnibus firmariis et feoffatis, tam in burgo quam extra burgum, ad dictas terras pertinentibus. Tenenda et habenda prædictis domino Jacobo et Egidiæ uxori suæ, et eorum heredibus de corporibus eorum procreatis, in liberum maritagium et in liberam baroniam, de me et heredibus meis, in pratis, pascuis, boscis, planis, moris et mariscis, in stagnis, aquis, Super petitione Isabellæ de Bellomonte, etc., quia testatum est quod Alexander, quondam rex Scotiæ, dedit baroniam de Carale cuidam Ricardo de Bellomonte, antecessori prædictæ Isabellæ, et quod postmodum Johannes de Balliolo, nuper rex, etc. de seisina sua reddidit dictam baroniam eidem Isabellæ, et quod uterque regum prædictorum post prædicta donum et redditionem semper fuerunt continue seisiti del can et proficuo, et quod le can non est pertinens ad baroniam prædictam, et quod prædicti Ricardus et Isabella nunquam fuerunt seisiti de prædicto can, et quod nullum can in Scotia transfertur extra manum domini regis in possessionem alienam nisi inde fiat mentio expressa in carta doni, etc., concordatum est quod mandetur per breve de cancellaria Angliæ custodi partium illarum et camerario Scotiæ quod per sacramentum, etc., inquiratur si prædictum can sit pertinens ad baroniam prædictam, et si prædicti reges semper fuerint in seisina de prædicto can post prædicta donum et redditionem, et si prædictus rex Alexander vel Johannes rex, etc., unquam liberaverint aliquam seisinam prædictis Ricardo et Isabellæ de præfato can, et si 'sit' pertinens, etc., et qualiter, et quo modo, et quo tempore. Et quod scire faciat præfatæ Isabellæ quod intersit captioni prædictæ inquisitionis, si sibi viderit expedire. Et quod rotuli et scripta de terra Scotiæ in custodia regis existentia interim scrutentur. Et inquisitionem et quid inventum fuerit in præmissis scire faciant domino regi. Et interim remaneat carta domini regis facta prædictæ Isabellæ de licentia, etc., in cancellaria, et quousque dominus rex inde fuerit certioratus ad plenum, etc.

TRANSLATION.

It is appointed by the king and his council that no passage of wools or of hides, of messengers or of merchants, take place anywhere within the realm of Scotland, excepting in places where are the cocket-seals, and at Kirkcudbright; but before they are exported from Kirkcudbright let the cocket-seal be sent there by the earl of Warren and by the council which the king has in Scotland. And that in each place two of the most honest and loyal men of the same place, associated with the keepers of the customs of our lord the king, be appointed and sworn to keep the port so closely by day and night, that no messenger carrying letters or message from abroad pass in any manner without especial warrant from the king, nor any other person carrying closed letters or other suspicious thing, but let such a person be taken and kept in prison until the king shall have ordered his pleasure therein. Scotland, at the king's charges, when he shall see necessary. And letters should be taken to the men of the said franchise that such an expedition should not be turned against them as a precedent, nor to their prejudice in the time to come. And the king does not intend that that should come except at his charges. And for these matters letters ought to be specially sent to sir John le Fitz Marmaduke.

Also, sir Walter de Huntercombe should have a commission to cause the people of Northumberland to come into Scotland at the command of the said sir John as often as shall be necessary. And the king wishes that mention should be made in the said letters that these expeditions should not be construed against them into a precedent nor prejudice.

Sir Richard le Brun should have similar letters to cause the people of Cumberland to come.

Sir Hugh de Multone should have similar letters to cause the people of Westmoreland to come.

minio subjugaremus, et præcipue Rodericum filium Alanī, qui per nos sæpe monitus ad pacem regiam venire recusavit et per dominum Alexandrum de Ergadia fuerat impeditus, unde nos dictum Rodericum per quosdam de nostris insequi fecimus, et relictis suis navibus ipsum fugaverunt, qui postmodum, multis incommodis anxiatus, fidem et fidelitatem domino nostro regi se servaturum promisit, et super 'hoc' literam suam patentem nobis concessit, quam domino regi misimus inspiciendam.

Demum Rolandus filius Alani, frater ejusdem Roderici (qui fidem et fidelitatem domino regi in curia sua personaliter præstitit), erectis vexillis, manu armata venit ad homines nostros in servitio domini regis existentes, et quosdam ex eis occidit, et eos omnibus bonis suis 'et navibus' spoliavit. Et dicti Rolandus et Rodericus terras domini regis de Sky et de Leogos in magna parte deprædabant, et homines in eisdem insulis inhabitantes occidebant, et incendia faciebant, et mulieres violenter opprimebant, et naves in servitio domini regis existentes infra immunitates ecclesiarum comburi faciebant; et dictæ insulæ per præfatos in tantum fuerunt adnichilatæ quod dominus 'rex' ex eis parum aut nichil de firma sua poterit lucrari.

Nos autem, Deo comite, cum omni posse nostro accedimus ad prædictos prædones et pacis perturbatores mitigandos vel debellandos, qui contra majestatem domini nostri regis talia perpetrare audebant.

Unde eidem domino nostro regi supplicamus ut per suas literas districte præcipiat nobilibus de Ergadia et de Ross ut nobis veniant in succursum, si eorum auxilio contra prædictos malefactores indigentiam habeamus. Et quia sigillum proprium tempore confectionis præsentis scedulæ non habuimus, sigillum Julianæ sponsæ nostræ præsentibus fecimus apponi.

Alexander of the Isles vindicates his conduct.

Memorandum quod iste est processus . . . anno M.CC. nonogesimo septimo, videlicet, quod cum Laclan Magrogri fecisset hom . . . utum, dictus L. ad insulas rediens, dominicas domini regis terras sibi usurpavit . . . ricum prædæ totaliter devastavit. Super quibus homines insulani Alexandro de Yle nuncios miserunt . . . negotiis, et dictus Alexander misso exercitu securitatem recepit a præfato Rodrico et ab hominibus dicti . . . competente quod starent regis voluntati et mandatis. Postmodum vero prædictus Lachlan, unico filio . . . nec ulla permissione retenta præfatas insulas domini regis invaserunt, ac in eisdem insulis . . . incendia et deprædationes atrociter perpetrarunt, et irruentes ex improviso super quosdam ex hominibus dicti Alexandri ipsos galeis et bonis suis spoliaverunt. Sed dictus L., relicto filio in obside et fratre suo in carcere, relictis etiam galeis suis, clam et furtive recessit, et (ut creditur) quantumcunque poterit, homines et terras regis molestabit.

Dictus Alexander, misso navali exercitu, dictas galeas sibi petiit reddi ex parte regis, tanquam constituto capitaneo per litteras regis de Ergadia et de Ross; sed homines existentes in præfato castro simpliciter galeas reddere renuerunt, et homines Alexandri de Yle petentes naves cum sagittis et carellis vulneraverunt, nec aliquam fidem voluerunt facere quod dictæ galeæ contra regem non venirent. Et quia homines dicti Alexandri propter pugnam immi-

Dictus vero Alexander de Yle supplicat domino Johanni de Benestede quod ista ostendat domino regi cum effectu, et quod super istis dominus rex voluntatem suam dicto Alexandro celeriter transmittat, et quod etiam supplicat domino regi de expensis dicti Alexandri in expeditionibus ejusdem anni et quod nichil recepit de quingentis libris [?] quas dominus rex anno præterito sibi concessit, nec a balliva sua adhuc super eisdem aliquam sufficientem habet responsionem. Sire, I understand that they have informed you of the peace, such as it is; and if you do not know it clearly, I send it to you under the seal of the bishop of Glasgow, along with his letter of credence, and the credence which his clerk told me, which things the said bishop then sent me to Roxburgh, praying that I would confirm the peace by my letters and my seal; which it did not at all become me to do without your orders.

Sire, if it be your pleasure, do not take it amiss that I have so long detained your messenger, for of a truth I have been much annoyed that I have not been able to tell you better news. And I keep William de Ledbury, your other messenger, by your leave, by whom I will let you know better tidings after the arrival of the earl, if God will. Sire, may God save and keep your noble lordship, and increase your honours.

TRANSLATION.

To our very honourable lord, greeting, if it please him, and [I am] always ready and prepared for his faithful service.

Dear sire, your Treasurer of Scotland having caused to be assembled a large troop, and having led them to Roxburgh to have attacked your enemies, who were in the company of the bishop of Glasgow, the earl of Carrick, and the Steward of Scotland, there came sir Henry de Percy and sir Robert de Clifford to Roxburgh, and brought in their company sir Alexander de Lindsay and sir William Douglas, and told us that they had received to your peace the enemies who had risen against you on this side of the Scottish sea; wherefore we returned to Berwick to await the arrival of my lord of Warren. If, then, your enemies show themselves the readier to come to your peace than they hitherto have done, many people think that this peace has been well devised.

And, dear sire, because sir William Douglas has not kept the covenants which he made with sir Henry de Percy, he is in your castle of Berwick, in my keeping, and he is still very savage and very abusive; but I will keep him in suchwise that, if it please God, he shall not get out. And the church of Douglas is vacant, and is well worth 200 marks, as I have heard; and if it please you to give it to your Treasurer of Scotland, I believe that you will have bestowed it well; for, by the faith which I owe you, he does not grow slack in your service, but takes the greatest pains to make things succeed.

Dear sire, your enemies are dispersed and dismayed, and if the peace which has been given them in your name does not please you, they shall speedily be disgraced, if you so order it to those who manage your affairs in these parts. Dear sire, be commended to God.

to you, according to the tenor of their writing, to . . . the March, sir Andrew de Rat, your bachelor, overtook him, carrying to the aforesaid earl your writ, that he should hasten towards the north of Scotland to the company of the bishop and sir Gartenethe before named, in consequence of a mischievous war which had been raised in the country by some of your enemies, who were breaking your peace; to curb and repress which war, according to the power which we have been able to collect so hurriedly, we are drawing towards that March. And as we were in Launoy [?] upon the Spey on the Tuesday before the feast of saint Mary Magdalene, there met us Andrew de Murray with a very large body of rogues, the number of which sir Andrew de Rate, your bachelor, can show you, according to what he heard from the people of their company. And there the aforesaid rogues betook themselves into a very great stronghold of bog and wood, where no horseman could be of service.

And we have to inform you that the aforesaid earl and his brother remain in the country . . . north, by your orders in your writ, and by two other writs, patent and close, which came Sire, your commands wished me to go without delay into Scotland, to do what the earl of Warren shall tell me . . . commandment.

I went thither; and at Berwick I found the earl and the other good people of your council, on the Sunday before the Gule of August, and they told me . . . should undertake the keeping of Scotland, and I answered that always would I willingly do your orders in all matters where I thought that I should succeed to your honour. But my body and my goods, and all that I have, shall always be ready to do your service. For the goods which I have would be too small, as far as I can stretch them, well to keep that land to your honour (for they do not extend beyond 1000*l.*), and to keep 50 armed horses. And moreover I do not think that I in my poverty can be able either well or honourably to keep the land in peace to your profit and honour, when such a nobleman as the earl can-

And therefore, if it be [your pleasure], be pleased to have regard to the condition of the land, and the great loss which you might therein incur through my want of skill were I foolishly to undertake such a high matter . . . to sustain it to your honour; and thereupon will you intimate your will, and the manner how it shall please you, that I may know how therein you may have honour and profit, . . . and I have satisfaction from you and your approval. And therefore, sire, if it be your pleasure, bethink you of him or of some other, as God shall give you counsel. And it is necessary that this should be as speedily as you can; for, in proportion as the matter is pressed onwards with good thought and good deliberation, so much the better for you.

Sire, as the earl has told you, we expect to have at Berwick the bishop of Glasgow, the earl of Carrick, and the Steward of Scotland, to confirm and settle the peace discussed there on the Thursday in the feast of saint Laurence; and if they come we hope it will be well; and if they do not come, we believe it will become necessary for every man to do his best.

Sire, the peace on the other side of the Scottish sea is still in obscurity, as it is said, as to the doings of the earls who are there. But at all events we hope that if our business succeeds well on the day of saint Laurence as to the bishop of Glasgow and the others, as far as the people on the other side of the Scottish sea are concerned, we hope we shall have them at our pleasure, by God's

To our lord the king and to his council show Perres de Deneven and Robert Herouh, that at the time when our lord the king was in Flanders, the earl of Warren, guardian of Scotland, with the earls and the barons of England who were in his company, recovered the town of Berwick upon Tweed which William Waleys and the other enemies of the king had seized in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of our lord the king. The said earls and barons told the said guardian that they could not well tarry there unless the foot-soldiers were properly paid for their residence.

To our lord the king prays Thomas de Fishburn that he will do a kindness to him respecting land to the value of twenty marks of rent, in Edenham, near Roxburgh, which sir John de Balliol gave him within nine weeks after he had done his homage to our lord the king for the realm of Scotland at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, for money which he owed to the said Thomas. And this rent the said Thomas took peaceably for three years and a half by the hands of the tenants of the said town of Edenham, while there was peace between the king of England and the said sir John de Balliol, then king of Scotland. And when the war began between them, Thomas was disturbed in the receipt of the said rent until our said lord the king went to Flanders. And at that time, at London, our lord the king granted (thanks to him for it), his writ to the said Thomas, which he carried to the earl of Warren, at that time guardian of Scotland, who caused him to have seizin of the said rent, according to the purport of his charter, saving the right of our lord the king and others. And the said earl ordered sir Walter de Agmondesham, then chancellor of Scotland, to make for him a writ to the sheriff of Roxburgh to have seizin of the said rent. And because the Scots again rose against our lord the king, and sir Hugh de Cressingham and other good Englishmen were killed at Stirling, the said writ was not delivered to the said Thomas, nor has he since received nor levied anything of the said rent.

Wherefore he prays our lord the king that he would be pleased to command his chancellor of Scotland to make for him a writ for the aforesaid rent similar to that which was formerly made for him by the order of our lord the king; seeing that he is, and always has been, in his fealty.

TRANSLATION.

To you, my lords, who are of the council of my lord the king show the abbot and convent of Jedburgh and sir Ive de Aldburge that they have understood that the constable of Jedburgh has told the king that he cannot keep his castle of Jedburgh without the forest of the same place. And, therefore, my lords, we the abbot and convent of Jedburgh and Ive de Aldeburge have offered to the king and you in his name to undertake the custody of the castle by a sufficient bachelor, partly at the charges of the king and partly at our own,—that is to say, 500 marks each year, until the end of five years; and to repair the houses of the castle at the cost of the king and partly at our own,—that is to say, 500 marks by year until the term aforesaid, so that the king shall thank us for it.

A.D. 1298. March 26.

Johanna Comyn of Badenagh to come to the king with her children.

DE CONDUCTU PRO JOHANNA UXORE JOHANNIS COMYN DE BADENAGHE.

Rex vicecomitibus[2] et aliis ballivis et fidelibus suis ad quos, etc., salutem.

Cum mandaverimus 'karissimæ' consanguineæ nostræ Johannæ, uxori Johannis Comyn de Badenaghe, junioris, quod ad nos cum liberis suis, consanguineis nostris, Londonias veniat sine mora, et miserimus Michaelem de Karliolo, servientem nostrum ad arma, ad ipsam Johannam et liberos suos ibidem in forma qua ei injunximus conducendos, vobis mandamus firmiter injungentes quod prædicto Michaeli ad prædictos Johannam et liberos suos ad nos usque ad locum prædictum conducendos vestrum consilium et auxilium impendatis, quotiens ab ipso super hoc ex parte nostra fueritis requisiti. In cujus, etc., usque ad crastinum Clausi Paschæ proximum futurum duraturæ.

Teste rege, apud Thurroke, xxvj. die Marcii.

Et mandatum est vicecomiti Oxoniæ quod visis præsentibus ad præfatam Johannam in propria persona sua accedens una cum Michaele de Karliolo, serviente regis ad arma (quem ad ipsum vicecomitem rex mittit ex hac causa), ipsam Johannam et liberos suos usque Londonias sub salvo et securo conductu duci faciat absque mora.

[1] From the Patent Roll, 26 Edw. I. m. 22.

[2] The king's letter to the countess, under the same date, is entered on the Close Roll for the year, mem. 12 dorso. It contains the order—"quod omnibus aliis prætermissis, ad nos Londonias accedatis; liberos vestros, consanguineos nostros, vobiscum modis omnibus adducentes."

before sir Roger Brabazon and his companions, justices of our bench, at the quinzaine of Easter, to do fealty to us for the things which she holds in the manor of Sprouston, which is within the realm of Scotland, and how she came before you at our Exchequer there to do her fealty, and that you decided not to admit her, as you have certified us by your letters; it is our wish that for certain reasons she do her fealty before you at our said Exchequer. And when she shall have done it, that you cause it to be made known to our said justices, as you shall see it right to be done. And in the same manner it is our wish that you should act in the matter of the lady de Vescy, who, as we understand, ought to do fealty for the part which she holds in the manor aforesaid. Dated under our Privy Seal at Basingburne, 3d May, 26 Edw. I.

Prætextu cujus mandati tam prædicta Clementia quam Isabella de Vescy, quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Vescy patris, venerunt coram thesaurario et baronibus ad scaccarium in propria persona xij die Maii anno prædicto, et prædicta Isabella, 'allocuta quas terras et quæ tenementa tenet in Sproustone,' dicit et cognovit quod tenet tertiam partem 'prædicti' manerii de Sproustone 'cum pertinentiis,' nomine dotis ipsam contingentis de terris et tenementis quæ fuerunt dicti Johannis, quondam viri sui, et quod nichil clamat in eadem tertia parte nisi tantum nomine dotis, ut prædictum est. Et [inde fecit] 'coram thesaurario et baronibus eodem die fecit inde' fidelitatem domino regi, ad quem et ad cujus heredes spectat reversio dictæ tertiæ partis post mortem ipsius Isabellæ, ex dono et concessione Willelmi de Vescy, fratris et heredis dicti Johannis de Vescy [patris] 'quondam viri ipsius Isabellæ,' prout patet in scripto ipsius Willelmi super hoc regi facto, quod irrotulatur in memorandis de termino sancti Hillarii anno xxv, in hæc verba:

Sciant præsentes et futuri quod ego Willelmus de Vescy concessi et reddidi domino meo, domino Edwardo, Dei gratia regi Angliæ, domino Hiberniæ et duci Aquitaniæ illustri, castrum, manerium et comitatum de Kyldare, cum omnibus pertinentiis et libertatibus suis, scilicet, quicquid habui vel habere potui in Hibernia. Concessi etiam eidem domino meo, domino regi, pro me et heredibus meis, manerium de Sproustone, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis tam in Anglia quam in Scotia, unde Clementia, quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Vescy, filii mei, duas partes, et Isabella, quæ fuit uxor Johannis de Vescy, fratris mei, tertiam partem tenet in dotem. Tenenda et habenda eidem domino meo, domino regi, et heredibus suis post mortem ipsarum Clementiæ et Isabellæ, una cum prædictis castro et manerio et comitatu, feodis militum, advocationibus ecclesiarum, et omnibus aliis quæ in Hibernia vel prædicto manerio de Sproustone habui vel habere potui quocunque modo, soluta ab omni exactione mei vel heredum meorum in perpetuum. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum meum apposui huic scripto.

Hiis testibus, venerabilibus patribus A. Dunolmensi, W. Elyensi, et W. Coventrensi et Lichefeldensi episcopis; Johanne de Langetone, cancellario Angliæ, Hugone Dispensatore, Johanne Drokenesforde, thesaurario garderobæ prædicti domini regis, et Johanne de Metingham, Johanne de Berwyke, Elya de Bekingham, Petro de Leycestria, et multis aliis.

And whereas sir Simon Fraser comes to you in such haste, let me inform you, sire, that he has no need to be in such a great hurry, for there was not by any means such a great power of people who came into his jurisdiction but what they might have been stopped by the garrisons if sir Simon had given them warning.

[1] The following letter (much defaced and torn) was apparently carried by Simon Fraser to the treasurer upon this occasion, to be by him given to the king. The governor of Berwick, by whom it would seem to have been written, had formed a more favourable estimate of the bearer than the keeper of Edinburgh Castle. The original is in the Public Record Office:—

"Sire, monsieur Simon Frezer senvent a vostre service, qe mut me ad prie qe jo vous requerge qe vous le eez excuse de ceo . . . a vostre reale seignurie qe vous eiz regard a ceo qe il vous est bons e loiaux, e bien e loiaument se est porte devers nous, e mot se peyne . . . promis. E qe de sa demoere le voilez aver escuse. Qe jo vous tesmoigne en la foi qe jo vus dey, e qe sa demoere ne ad pas ete en defa . . . seignurie e acresce vos honurs.

And of this I warned him eight days before they came; and before they were entered into the forest, it was reported that there was a treaty between them and sir Simon, and that they had a conference together, and ate and drank, and were on the best of terms. Wherefore, sire, it were well that you should be very cautious as to the advice which he shall give you.

And let me tell you, sire, that this same sir Simon sent me a letter (whereof I send you the copy), the day when he set out from his charge, or the next day, and he wished that I should come thither to him; to which I made such an answer as I send you in writing, but I do not know whether it reached him or not. And he sent me other letters some time before I came thither to him, on the day on which our enemies came suddenly before our castle, and on which sir Thomas d'Arderne was taken; wherefore I fear that he is not of such good faith as he ought to be. Wherefore I beg of you and the rest of the king's council to beware.

no where else. And if it so happen that your mills are broken or out of order by reason of a flood for some time, whereby they cannot be used, and they wish to grind elsewhere, or in their own houses, they should bring their grist to the farmer of your mills and grind it where they please. And if they do not do this, and if they can be convicted of having ground elsewhere without having made compensation to the farmer for their grist, they may be seized on their way toward their houses after having ground, and the horse shall be forfeited to you, and the meal shall go to the farmer of your mills. And I have frequently cautioned them, as from you, sire, to observe this custom as they were wont to do before the conquest, and as they ought to do of right, and have distrained them by many distresses, which distresses the warden has delivered by plevin; and the burgesses have answered me that they have not their condition of burgesses as they used to have, wherefore they will observe no such custom, nor will they do so without especial commandment from yourself, if they are not to have their position as burgesses, as they used to have before the conquest.

TRANSLATION.

Be it remembered that in regard to the town of Berwick it is appointed by the king and his council that they should have sixty men-at-arms and 1000 foot soldiers, whereof 100 should be cross-bow-men; and that they should receive the king's wages in such manner as the sheriff of Roxburgh, the sheriff of Jedburgh, and sir Simon Fraser with one accord have awarded. And let them see that they make no foray anywhere, or engage in any important affair against the enemies, without having a reinforcement from the troops in the said garrison every time they shall be so employed of thirty men-at-arms and 500 footmen. Of these (as it shall appear to be necessary) the warden of the town shall at one time be the leader of the foray, and at another time the constable of the castle, according as the case may require; but so that always one of them, whenever such expeditions occur, should remain as the keeper of the castle and the town until the others return.

Edward by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, and duke of Aquitaine, to the sheriff of York, greeting.

Whereas we trust, by God's help, in this summer next ensuing to come with our host in great power into the parts of Scotland to curb and annihilate the malice and rebellion of the Scots, our enemies and rebels, in consequence whereof it will perforce be necessary to make great provision of many kinds of victuals for the support of ourselves and of our host aforesaid against our coming into these parts, we command you, firmly injoining you, that you cause to be provided for us from the issues of your bailiwick within your bailiwick (excepting the bailiwick of Holderness), in the places where you can more conveniently do so to our profit and to the greater easement of our people, as well from those per-

And you shall cause the said wheat to be ground and well sifted, so that no bran remains therein, and the flour thereof you shall cause to be put into good casks, both strong and clean, so that the said flour may be closely packed therein, and well pressed down, and on each cask let there be placed three hoops of hazel, and some salt at the bottom of each cask to prevent the flour from becoming bad. And this you shall cause to be done by good people, loyal and prudent, so that the article may continue for a year without being damaged, or two, if necessary.

And all these things aforesaid you shall cause to come to Berwick-upon-Tweed, so as to have them there on Whitsun eve next coming, or on Whitsunday at the latest, to deliver them there to the receiver of our store.

of the said issues of your bailiwick and from the arrears of your accounts, and from the money which is to be raised, whereof you are bound to answer at our exchequer at our next proffer of Easter. And what you shall expend in the taking and the purchase of the things abovesaid, and in the carriage of the same things, as well by land as by sea, to the said town of Berwick, we shall cause to be allowed to you in your account of the issues aforesaid. And all these things aforesaid, as well in prisages and purchases as in payments and other things which are connected with the business, you shall cause to be well and faithfully performed under the penalty of losing whatsoever you can forfeit to us, so that herein we may have no damages nor failure by your neglect or fault, which God forbid.

And to accomplish, supervise, forward, and diligently procure all these things, we send to you our dear clerk Ralph de Dalton, to whom you may give firm credence upon these matters, according to what he will tell you more fully from us. In witness whereof, etc.

De victualibus in Hibernia providendis.

A.D. 1298. Dec. 12.

Provisions for the Scottish campaign to be sent from Ireland.

Rex dilectis et fidelibus suis, Johanni Wogan, justiciario, magistro Thomæ Cantoke cancellario, et Willelmo de Estdene, thesaurario suis Hiberniæ, salutem.

Ad gentis Scottorum, proditorum nostrorum, qui rupto homagii et fidelitatis vinculo, facti sunt nobis et toti regno nostro Angliæ hostes in capite, perseverando in suorum perversitate conatuum cordibus induratis, rebellionem et perfidiam conterendam, coacti exurgere, eorum superbia et superhabundanti nequitia exigente, in eorum summum exterminium proxima æstate ventura intendimus procedere cum Dei adjutorio magnifice et potenter.

Unde cum pro expeditione nostra hujusmodi ad nostram et exercitus nostri sustentationem multa genera victualium requirantur, et pro illis commodius et sufficientius perquirendis ad terram nostram Hiberniæ necesse recurrere habeamus, vobis mandamus in fide qua nobis tenemini quod de octo milibus quarteriorum frumenti, quorum sex milia sint de farina bulteata,[2] ita quod nichil de furfure rema-

[1298-9 ?]—Instructions for the Ambassadors of Haco V., King of Norway, on Treating with King Edward.[1]

[A.D. 1298-9 ?]

The credence of the Norwegian ambassadors to treat with king Edward.

In evidentia sua remissa nunciis domini regis per illustrissimum regem Norwegiæ ista continentur ;—

Primo, quod idem dominus suus rex Norwegyæ regratiatur vobis, domino Edwardo regi Angliæ illustri, pro conciliis et amicitiis, nec non ceteris curialitatibus, karissimo fratri Erico, quondam regi Norwegiæ, et specialiter sibi ipsi et suis, prius sæpius factis et impensis.

Secundo, quod paratus est omnia pro vobis facere quæ cedere poterunt in vestrum commodum et beneficium, et sicut frater pro fratre solet facere.

Item, tertius articulus continet ista :—

Primo, quod Insulæ Sodorenses ultra Scotiam ad regem et regnum Norwegyæ pertinebant jure dominii pleno et perfecto. Tandem rex Norwegyæ, nomine Magnus, regi Scotiæ, nomine Alexandro, prædictas insulas secundum conventionem habitam inter ipsos ad firmam sibi concessit, annuatim certa pecuniæ summa reddenda regi Noruagyæ, vel ipsius legitimis successoribus, pro eisdem, minus tamen medietate justorum redituum earumdem; sub tali conditione, quod quicumque in solutione defecerit annuæ pecuniæ, insulæ prædictæ essent in manu et dominio regis Noruegyæ, prout antea.

Mortuo vero Alexandro rege Scotiæ et præfecto in regem Johanne Baylolfe, quidam occupaverant prædictas insulas, qui in solutione annuæ pecuniæ regi Noruegyæ reddendæ pro eisdem deficiebant. Propter quod idem rex Noruegyæ dicit earumdem insularum dominium et ordinationem ad se fore devolutam. Præterea, omnia ista vobis fuerunt semel ostensa apud Aberconeueu[1] per nuncium Erici regis Noruegyæ, et vestrum super hiis petiit concilium; cui per litteram vestram consuluistis quod jus suum in eisdem quam cicius et commodius posset recuperaret, de quo concilio confiditur adhuc dominus Haquinus rex Noruegyæ. Nam sine vestro concilio, voluntate vel assensu, petere vel innovare aliqua contra earumdem detentores non intendit. Scientes tamen quod inimici vestri et sui quam sæpius latitant in eisdem, in vestri et sui dampnum et illusionem evidentem. Unde si vobis placet ut ipse ex illa parte pro recuperando jure suo et Scotos expungnando, vestros inimicos et suos, veniat, et vos ex ista parte pro recuperando jure vestro veniatis. Petit litteram a vobis ad omnes senescallos, præpositos, ballivos et ministros vestros in Scotia, ut adjuvent homines suos; et consimiliter litteram paratus est dare vobis ut homines sui adjuvent homines vestros. [A.D. 1298-9 ?]

Item, petit idem Haquinus rex Noruegyæ litteram a vobis ad senescallos vestros, præpositos, ballivos, et ministros in Scotia, ut justitiam sibi, vel suo legitimo procuratori, faciant fieri de dote, et de ejus arreragiis, dominæ Margareta, filiæ Alexandri regis Scotiæ, uxoris Erici regis Noruegyæ.

Item, eodem modo petit litteram super exitibus regni Scotiæ secundum sententiam vestram latam apud Berewyke pro filia regis Ericy pro eo tempore quo ipsa vixit.

Item, petit idem rex Noruagyæ litteram a vobis super hoc quod mercatores regni Noruagyæ, vel homines sui, et naves eorum, venientes ad Angliam, vel alibi infra costerios vestros, non attachientur nec arrestentur nisi pro debitis propriis, et non pro . . . alicujus nisi fidejussoris, non obstante jurisdictione . . . ordinaria villarum vestrarum maritimarum.

Be informed, very dear sire, that you have rejoiced us much by the rescue which you have promised us, and that we will do your commands at our power as far as we are able. And know, sire, that your honour shall never be injured by us as long as our victuals hold out. And we give you to understand as a certainty that John de Soules and the earl of Buchan with their power are lying at Loudon, and sir Simon Fraser at Stanhouses, and sir Alexander de Habernithyn and sir Hubert de Morham. Wherefore, dear sire, if it please you to vouchsafe to send 100 armed horse, with a good chieftain, to-morrow at the latest, we will discomfit all that company, and we will have all the country round about us. And be informed that all the country is rising, because we have no troops to ride upon them.

Letter on the naval expedition against the Western Isles.

Vestra sciat [nobilitas] quod ego fui cum classe vestra et omnibus hominibus nostris, videlicet, cum Engusio de Yle et Johanne filio Suffne, usque diem Dominicam ante festum sancti Michaelis proximo præteritam,[2] et adhuc sumus, expectantes mandatum vestrum et voluntatem vestram in partibus de Buth et de Kentire.

Quare vestram dominationem exoro quatinus, si placet, velitis transmittere mandatum vestrum litteratorie ad Alexandrum de Ergadia, si creditis ipsum esse in pace vestra, quia si est in pace vestra guerram vestram in partibus insularum credimus esse determinatam; et si non est in pace vestra, si placet, mittatis nobis consilium et auxilium vestrum quid sit agendum, ut possimus destruere et debellare ipsum et alios adversarios qui sunt in illis.

[1301. Oct. ?]—Letter from Engus de Yle to King Edward respecting his Proceedings in the Isles of Scotland.[1]

[A.D. 1301. Oct. ?]

Letter on the naval expedition against the Western Isles.

Nobilissimo viro ac excellentissimo, domino Eduardo Dei gratia regi Angliæ, domino Hiberniæ, suus Engus de Yle, humilis et fidelis, salutem quam sibi.

Vestra sciat nobilitas quod ego fui in comitatu domini Hugonis Bisseth et cum classe vestra quamdiu fuit in insula de Buth, videlicet, usque diem Dominicam proximo ante festum Michaelis ultimo præteritum, et adhuc sum, expectans mandatum vestrum.

Quare vestram nobilitatem exoro umiliter et requiro, quatinus quod si creditis quod Alexander de Ergadia sit in pace vestra et protectione, mandetis dicto Alexandro ut sit ausilians et consulens domino Hugoni Bisseth et Engusio mihi de Yle, et omnibus hominibus vestris, ut mediante sua potentia et vestra, inimicos vestros possimus destruere et vires inimicorum ad nichilum redigere. Et si creditis quod non est in pace vestra, mittatis ad nos consilium vestrum litteratorie, ut possimus, Deo adjuvante, ipsum ac alios vestros inimicos per insulas destruere.

Cæterum vestram dominationem humiliter exoro pro filiis Rodrici, qui in potentia nostra sunt, 'in hiis annis,' et fuerunt contra omnes vestros adversarios et nostros; quatinus si placet velitis concedere eis nativum feodum colere, ut vobis serviant humiliter et fideliter, prout regi debeant obedire.

[1301. Oct. ?]—Letter from Johannes filius Suffne to King Edward respecting his Proceedings in the Isles of Scotland.[1]

[A.D. 1301. Oct. ?]

Letter on the naval expedition against the Western Isles.

Nobilissimo viro ac excellentissimo domino Eduardo, Dei gratia regi Angliæ, domino Hiberniæ, Johannes suus in omnibus servitiis humilis et fidelis filius Suffnee, salutem, et se promptum ad omnia sua beneplacita facienda.

Vestra sciat regia majestas quod ego sum in comitatu nobilis viri domini Hugonis Byseth, et cum classe vestra, quamdiu venit ad regna Scoticana, et postquam recessistis de villa Glasguensi ad castellum de Bhotvill,[2] et in vestro servitio cum dicto Hugone paratus existo et promtus ad omnia vestra beneplacita facienda. Et postquam 'resecit' classis 'vestra' de Buth ego adivi et visitavi terram meam de Cnapedale, quam michi vestri gratia per vestras patentes litteras contulistis. Hinc est quod Johannes de Ergadia intravit dictam terram cum manu armata et cum magna potentia ex parte domini Johannis de Menetheh, et me prohibuit habitare dictam terram; qui quidem Johannes de Menetheh est vester adversarius.

Quare vestram majestatem regiam humiliter omni prece qua possum exoro supplicans et requiro ut dignemini litteras vestras transmittere ad Johannem de Ergadia, si creditis quod sit in pace vestra, ut deliberet terram meam de Cnapadale mihi, cum omnibus agiamentis ad dictam terram pertinentibus, prout vos per vestras litteras mihi vestri gratia contulistis; et vestram voluntatem expecto, et ad vestra beneplacita sum paratus facienda.

Valete semper in Domino.

by a letter of credence concerning the affairs of our lord the king on this side of the Scottish sea, know ye that our credence is to this effect :—

That we should tell the said Richard and Alexander that the Scotch have openly assembled with all their force in the lands; and that the Irish troops (who are in their pay for nine weeks and more) have heard it said that money had arrived at Berwick, and they are remaining in the country round about Linlithgow, where they can have nothing whereon to live excepting for ready money, unless they rob the people who have come into allegiance to the king; and they perceive plainly that no one cares for them nor for their lives; whereupon they have packed up their baggage to depart to their own country. And sir John de Mentethe and sir Alexander de Meyners, who had come to treat in good form for peace, broke up their business by reason of the scarcity which they saw among the said people.

Hereupon sir Aymer de Valence promised them that if money had arrived they might thereof think themselves safe; whereupon they held themselves well satisfied; and that he was not strong

Whereupon the aforesaid Richard and Alexander ought to do his commandment, so that it should be no blame of theirs if the country on this side the Scottish sea was in such a state that the king had no power to stop his enemies, to his dishonour and damage. And they say that this sir Thomas died in Scotland on the other side of the mountains, in war against the fealty of the king, on the Tuesday before the feast of saint Andrew last past a year ago. The said lady Jane died a long time before the Scottish war, and the said Thomas continued in seisin.

And they say that the moiety of the barony of Wilton is held of the king in capite by the service of the fourth part of one knight's fee; and it is worth, in all issues, ten marks by the year.

And the said jurors say that the land of Appeltrerig, with its appurtenances, descended to William le Chartres by descent of inheritance of the descent of Agnes de Vescy, his mother. And they say that the said Agnes died in the king's fealty at Appeltrerige at Martinmas two years ago. And they say that this land is holden of the royalty of Sprouston, by the service of a white

To the very noble and wise lord, sir Edward, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, and duke of Aquitaine, his liege and devoted Margaret, countess of Lennox, greeting, in reverence and honour.

We make known to your highness and dignity that sir John Cumyn has sent a part of his host across the Forth into Lennox to destroy and ruin those persons who have come to your peace. Whereupon we pray your lordship humbly and devoutly that you would deign to send us your counsel, together with succours hastily for their deliverance, and for the governance and support of those persons who have come to your peace. And as it is reported, they have come with a hundred mounted men and a thousand foot-soldiers, and reached Drymen in Lennox on the Sunday next after Michaelmas.

May God preserve your life in honour.

Know ye that whereas I (being in the homage, faith, and allegiance of my lord Edward king of England, lord of Ireland, and duke of Aquitaine), led by bad advice, have raised, and caused to raise war against my said lord, and thereto was assenting and procuring and aiding his enemies, overtly and covertly to my power, against my said homage, fealty, and allegiance, whereof I perceive, know, and acknowledge myself culpable, I, of my good and free will, have surrendered and do surrender myself entirely, absolutely, and completely to the will of my said lord. And albeit that, moved by pity towards me, he has granted me a special grace, and beyond what I have deserved in this matter, as to my pardon of life and limb, and of release from imprisonment, nevertheless, I have submitted and do submit myself entirely to the will of my said lord, and will and grant that he should do to my body, and whatever I have or can have, and all the lands and tenements which were mine at any time, or which may fall to me henceforth in any manner whatever in the land of Scotland or elsewhere, and that he should ordain, establish, and do fully at his will, and according to what he pleases. And thereto I bind myself as
